

Testimonials

There are several religions in the world. Every religion has some good core values of life. However, followers ignore them in practical life. From this viewpoint Mrs. Medhavi Jain's efforts to make Dharma useful for life are very commendable. Her programs encourage people to practice core values of Jain Dharma in life and thus minimise the gap between practice and preachings in actual life. I wish her all success in her noble mission which will make our life happy and peaceful.

Medhavi ji is a true human being, a great friend, and an inspiring co-traveller who cares for all. Her pleasant demeanour is most striking which makes everyone so comfortable and also involved in all the events by Dharma For Life. Her interventions in the panel discussions are precise, done at the very right moment whenever there was a slight deviation or something getting longer. The audience looks spellbound, fully engrossed in the lively shows of wisdom and core human values. Kudos to Dharma For Life for organising such excellent programs.

In the contemporary rushed world, finding inner-peace and solace is a difficult aspiration. More difficult is the ability to get hold of a guiding hand which will lay down the path which needs to be traversed. My attendance at the 'Dharma for Life' session makes me believe that the Foundation is an earnest attempt to revitalize our centuries old divine knowledge and pangs for salvation as a pragmatic guide into how to lead our lives honestly and selflessly, and more importantly, how to become better human beings. My fullest congratulations to Dr. Medhavi Ji and the Foundation for their tireless efforts to bring together noted speakers and panels who explain how all of these noble virtues and qualities are not impossible to follow and are in fact quite achievable.
